GOING SUPERSONIC with USAF Thunderbirds! Pulling 7 G's in an F-16

At the September 6 meeting, we watched a video made by Destin Sandlin, an American engineer and science communicator who produces the video series Smarter Every Day on his YouTube channel.

Destin traveled to Keesler Air Force base to meet the Thunderbirds, a group of 12 highly trained pilots and hand-picked group of 120 support personnel. He was scheduled to fly with Thunderbird pilot Maj. Jason Markzon whom had previously flown in a T-38. Destin got suited up in a fitted g-suit, which will help his body later when they reach dangerously high g-forces on their flight.

The Thunderbird plane is the amazing F-16 jet. . Right after takeoff, they entered a 16,000-foot vertical climb. Once Maj. Markzon reached the right height, he started the extreme maneuvers with two intense 180-degree turns, where they reached a peak of 6.7 g-forces. To stay safe in such a high force, one needs to clench every muscle in their body and make sure they are breathing very well. Afterward, Markzon brought them up to Mach 1, also known as the speed of sound. It is hard to even tell the difference between Mach 0.99 and Mach 1, but you can feel a tiny little bump, and the altimeter will begin to act up.

Next, they performed a Split-S maneuver where 7.2 G's were reached. After this, Destin decided to tap out. The forces were so intense his head continued to spin after Markzon leveled off the plane. We learned later in the video that this sensation is due to fluid and cells in your head continuing to spin, even after you have physically stopped spinning. The official Thunderbird pilots deal with high g-forces multiple times a week. During shows, they will reach up to 9 G's on certain maneuvers. Although Destin could not take more than 7 G's the Thunderbird pilots are incredibly strong and experienced, and they have gotten used to even these extreme forces and how to fly in them safely. It goes to show how incredible, talented, and one-of-a-kind each Thunderbird pilot is.

After the flight, Destin visited NASA's Lab in Houston, Texas, where Sharon, a physiology expert, demonstrated the sensation he experienced during his flight in a spin chair. The video showed how disoriented he can get with what is called the Coriolis effect. Several WOW members felt dizzy after watching the demonstration.

Destin closed the video with an interview with Maj Michelle Curran, who flies the number 7 lead solo position. She described how she trains to endure 9 G's.

9/11 The Moment the World Changed 20 years On Under Investigation

At the meeting of September 13, we reflected on 9/11 by watching a video produced by an Australian TV show titled Under Investigation (UI) which seeks to solve crimes, uncover new evidence, hear from people who have never spoken publicly, while harnessing great knowledge and skill with exciting and innovative storytelling techniques.

UI documented details of the tragedy. As we know, 9/11 majorly affected not only those who were hurt and killed, but it affected the entire country and even the entire world. After the events, terrorism was a top focus in the United States. President George W. Bush launched the War on Terror to stop any more tragedies like these from happening in the future. However, some suspicions were proven wrong in Iraq when no weapons of mass destruction were found. The War on Terror also resulted in increased racism against people of Muslim descent around the United States.

On the other hand, some conspiracy theorists may believe that details of 9/11 have been covered up by the US government. 30% of the US population still believes that the government had direct involvement in these attacks. There are accusations that the collapse of each building was a controlled demolition, some saying that jet fuel can't melt steel. These theories are constantly debunked.

We honor and remember those many civilians who lost their lives in the World Trade Center that day, as well as the firefighters who gave their lives to save others. Never Forget.

Councilmember Bob Blumenfield

On September 20, 2021, Councilmember Bob Blumenfield visited our meeting. He spoke to the group about the Homeless crisis in his district. He informed us about the rules and regulations preventing quick action to relocate homeless people from sidewalks and underpasses to homeless shelters. He discussed the various shelter options.

He told us about the Homeless Housing and Recovery Project he has launched. In addition, the Councilmember told us about the innovative drug treatment program he created and his recent success in getting the Los Angeles City Council to approve funding for Bridge Housing in the West Valley.

Both the Zoom participants and members in the auditorium asked the Councilmember questions about issues of concern, which he answered.

It was a very informative and productive session and we look forward to his visiting us in the future.

Victor Davis Hanson Lecture September 8, 2021

On September 27, 2021, our featured presentation was a video of Victor Davis Hanson’s lecture at Hillsdale College on September 8, 2021.

The subject of his lecture was the dying citizen. He explained the decline and fall of the once cherished idea of American citizenship.

Human history is full of the stories of peasants, subjects, and tribes. Yet the concept of the “citizen” is historically rare—and was among America’s most valued ideals for over two centuries. But without a shock treatment, Victor Davis Hanson warns that American citizenship may soon vanish as we have known it.

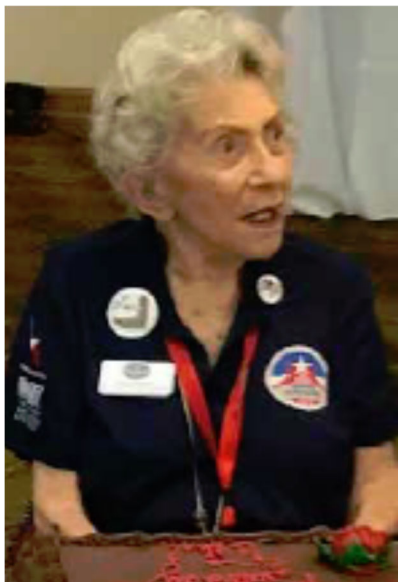

In the lecture, Hanson outlines the historical forces that led to this crisis. The evisceration of the middle class over the last fifty years has made many Americans dependent on the federal government. Open borders have undermined the idea of allegiance to a particular place. Identity politics have eradicated our collective civic sense of self. And a top-heavy administrative state has endangered personal liberty, along with formal efforts to weaken the Constitution.

Professor Hanson told us that as in the revolutionary years of 1848, 1917, and 1968, 2020 ripped away our complacency about the future. But in the aftermath, he stated that we as Americans can rebuild and recover what we have lost. The choice is ours.

In Memoriam

In September 2021, we lost two former members of the Wings Over Wendy's management team. Leon Walman, the original Treasurer of the group and Al Lewis who maintained the roster for several years following Fred Belchman's death.

They were both faithful attendees of meetings, lunches, tours, and events. Their presence will be missed!

Leon Waldman

AUG 16, 1924 to SEP 17, 2021

Leon Waldman was born in New York City on August 16, 1924. After graduating high school in the Bronx, he enlisted in the Army Air Corps in November 1942. Basic Training was in Miami Beach, where they stayed in a hotel and trained on a golf course. Initial training was to be an aircraft mechanic at Gulfport with additional training at the Douglas plant in Long Beach. After losing a coin toss, he was assigned as an aerial gunner rather than a flight engineer, and he went to Small Arms Training in Utah before attending Gunnery School in Las Vegas. Crews were formed in Salt Lake City, and he was placed in the newly formed 483rd Bomb Group for additional Training in Rapid City and Tampa. His crew flew one of 72 new B-17G's from Georgia to Europe via South America and the South Atlantic. After a two-week stopover in Tunisia, they continued to Italy.

Their new plane was taken from them, and they inherited “Bad Penny,” a veteran of 100 missions. Between April and August 1944, he flew 50 combat missions to Yugoslavia, Austria, France, Italy, Germany, and several to Ploesti. His worst mission was his 40th to Memmingen, Germany, on July 18, 1944. They were attacked by 75 to 200 German fighters and lost 14 of 26 airplanes in their formation. His squadron was awarded the Presidential Unit Citation and was credited with destroying 75 enemy planes. After 50 missions, he returned to the United States in September 1944 and was sent to Kingman, AZ as an aerial gunner instructor. After V-E Day, he started Flight Engineer Training preparing for the war in the Pacific. The dropping of the atomic bombs changed everything, and he was discharged on September 6, 1945. His decorations include the Air Medal with 4 Oak Leaf Clusters, Presidential Unit Citation, and European-African-Middle Eastern Campaign Medal.

Leon relocated to Los Angeles in 1953, where he lived for the remainder of his life. He was still active after more than 6 decades as a financial planner. He was the Treasurer of the 483rd Bomb Group Association for nearly 20 years and Wings Over Wendy's.

He is survived by his son, grandchildren, great-grandchildren, extended family in New York, and many of his closest friends. He will be missed.

With Arlington
Groundbreaking, Air Force Memorial Will Soon be Inside Cemetery

Sept. 14, 2021 | By Abraham Mahshie

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers broke ground Sept. 14 on an expansion of Arlington National Cemetery intended to add 80,000 gravesites and to make the Air Force Memorial the face of a new southern entrance to the cemetery.

The expansion, which will include the site where the Navy Annex once stood and the slope between the Air Force Memorial and the Pentagon, will add 50 acres to the cemetery, realign roads, relocate the service complex, and incorporate access to the Air Force Memorial. Planners believe the expansion will draw thousands more visitors to the site. Officials hope the additional space will ensure the cemetery can remain active for another 150 years.

"Our fabulous Air Force Memorial will continue to shine," said AFA President retired Lt. Gen. Bruce "Orville" Wright. "From the beginning, it was always the expectation that the Memorial would eventually be incorporated into Arlington Cemetery. This design, with the Memorial as a major point of entry, will ensure even more visitors will come and experience its soaring spires and the Airmen the site memorializes."

The project breaks down into two pieces: the road work and the cemetery expansion, which cannot begin until the road work is at least 70 percent complete. Estimated to take six years, the expansion plan will cost about $350 million, of which the first $60 million came from the 2019 National Defense Authorization Act.

The road project will realign and replace roadways and construct new pedestrian and bicycle paths. New parking facilities and a new operations complex, to include an office building, warehouse, and maintenance bays, is also planned.

Army Secretary Christine Wormuth and Maj. Gen. Joel D. Jackson, commander of the Air Force District of Washington, attended the ceremony. Unlike most national cemeteries, which are controlled by the Department of Veterans Affairs, Arlington is operated by the Army.

Internment at Arlington National Cemetery is limited to retired veterans with more than 20 years of service; service members who were killed or wounded in action and awarded the Purple Heart Medal; decorated combat veterans awarded a Silver Star or higher; former prisoners of war; and service members who died while on Active duty. A 2018 advisory panel recommended above-ground internment for the remaining World War II and Korean War veterans who do not otherwise qualify.

An Arlington National Cemetery spokesperson said the 150-year extension of the cemetery's operational life presumes revised eligibility criteria. Rule-making is underway, and proposed criteria are expected to be released next year.

Arlington National Cemetery hosts 25 to 30 funeral services each day and 10 on Saturdays for a total of 3,000 to 5,000 yearly burials.

Raquel Ramsey & Tricia Aurand

Foreword by Major General

Jeannie M. Leavitt, USAF

The inspiring story of a girl from Depression-era Kansas who overcame tremendous challenges and defied convention to become an elite pilot—one of the few American women to fly fighter aircraft during World War II.

“Nadine Ramsey is a true hero. Her story needs to be told. Taking Flight does that in a very readable way.”
